

Does a countries population determine its variables?

By James Simpson.

In Kaggle's World population's dataset does a countries size effect its other variables? With Rstudio and sorting Kaggle's dataset will represent if the population determines statistics like yearly change, fertility rate, migrants etc. If so, which variables, does it affect and by how much?